Dive into Deni

Country hospitality, proud history, natural beauty – and a place you’re always welcome. This is Deniliquin.

Whether you’re here on a pilgrimage to the iconic Deni Ute Muster, or just a relaxing riverside break with the family, Deni is the perfect place to get away from the fast pace of modern life and take it easy.

Deniliquin straddles the Edward River (Kolety), where towering red gums meet expansive outback plains. Our sunny climate has drawn visitors here to enjoy the outdoors for generations, with plenty of fun on the water by day followed by some of the biggest starry skies you'll ever see by night.

Deniliquin's human history dates back tens of thousands of years. The region has remained home to the Wamba Wamba and Perrepa Perrepa people since these early times. When European settlers arrived in the 1840s, the town grew quickly, fuelled by its riverside location, wool, rice and other crops. This was a time of great change and we acknowledge that these changes had a big impact on the lives of local traditional owners.

Today, you'll find Deni offers the perfect combination of natural wonders with swimming spots and national parks on the doorstep, as well as gorgeous gardens and a wide selection of cafes, pubs and restaurants to explore in the heart of town.

From long walks through native bushland to long afternoons in a beer garden, from a gentle float along the river to a friendly round of golf, Deni is here to be enjoyed at your own pace.

We love to welcome visitors, so if there's anything we can do to make your stay complete, just ask.

Welcome to Deni –
we reckon you'll feel at home in no time.

 BIG4 Deniliquin Holiday Park

 Edward River (Kolety)

Here's how you can experience the best of Deni in just two days. Ready? Let's go.

Day 1

Afternoon

Hire two wheels and head to the Murray Valley Regional Park to explore the Mountain Bike Trails – or if you prefer a more gentle speed, there's impressive bird watching to be done at the Reed Beds Bird Hide.

Then it's time to hit the Edward River (Kolety) – hire a barge from BIG4 Deniliquin and spend an afternoon exploring the river or fishing (you don't need a boat or fishing licence on this barge). The refreshing waters will also beckon for a float, a canoe or a swim!

Evening

As evening falls, tuck into some takeaway fish and chips back at Willoughby's Beach – it's dog friendly so bring your four-legged friend. If it's warm, take a dip in the river, and if it's cold, this is an ideal setting for campfires and marshmallows.

Then pop by one of our friendly pubs. The first Friday of the month is an open-mic muso night at the Deniliquin Club so bring your best singing voice!

Day 2

Morning

Stretch your legs with a stroll along the Lagoon Walk - it's a great way to wander through picturesque parts of Deni with the Water Tower Mural at the end.

If you're not too walked out, there's the Golf Club for a quick round or the Historic Town Walk with a guided map from the Visitor Information Centre. There are more than 40 points of interest dotted throughout Deni.

Afternoon

When hunger hits, grab a counter meal from one of our country pubs (always hard to beat a parma) or any of the tasty takeaway options with a picnic in a local park, or take some barbecue supplies down to McLean Beach.

Then explore the unique collection of rare and vintage vehicles at The Depot, or learn more about the area at the fascinating Yarkuwa Indigenous Knowledge Centre.

Local tip!

One of the best places to see a Riverina sunrise is along the Mulwala Canal heading towards Blighty. On a Saturday morning just before 6am we grab a coffee and drive out to the channel bank to watch the sunrise light up one of the biggest skies you can imagine.

Adrian Cummins, Deniliquin

Day 2

Evening

It's time to hit the road to the famous Hay Plains to see a truly epic sunset. Along the way, you'll pass scenic flatlands, farmland, villages and sculptures such as the Headless Horseman.

On your drive back into Deni, drop by the Wanganella General Store for dinner and a yarn with the locals by the longest creek in Australia - the Billabong Creek. As you head home, you'll see why the big sky is so popular with star gazers around here.

On the river

Whether boating, paddling, fishing, or just splashing about, the Edward River (Kolety) is the perfect aquatic playground.

At the heart of Deni is the Edward River (Kolety) - a place of natural beauty that's home to well-loved beaches, swimming spots, boat ramps, long stretches to explore by kayak, and plenty of places to throw in a line in search of Murray Cod.

Here the water calls you to go at your own speed - from the thrill of water-skiing to a quiet float as the currents take you past the majestic red forest gums which line the riverbanks.

The Edward River (Kolety) lies within the traditional lands of the Wamba Wamba Perrepa Perrepa Nations. The traditional name for the river is 'Kolety' (pronounced 'kol-etch').

Beaches

Deniliquin has two public beaches to choose from – both with sandy riverbanks and public facilities.

McLean Beach is a popular choice for water-skiing, swimming and picnics. It has barbecue and bathroom facilities, a public boat ramp and plenty of parking spots.

Willoughby's Beach has even more to offer for those keen on swimming, camping, fishing and floating. Among the sandy beaches and shady trees, you'll find picnic tables and a boat ramp. It's also pet friendly, so even your dog can splash about.

Boating

The Edward River (Kolety) around Deni is divided into a ski zone and a no-ski zone – so it's up to you whether you want adrenalin-pumping action in your speed boat or to take things easy in your kayak or houseboat.

Ski zone

Downstream of McLean Beach – best for speedboats and wake boats.

No-ski zone

Upstream of McLean Beach – best for fishing, houseboats and canoeing.

Boat ramps

There are six public boat ramps in Deniliquin, and one located further out of town at Benarca Bend.

- Benarca Bend Boat Ramp, Stevens Weir Road, Deniliquin
- Harfleur Street Boat Ramp, Harfleur Street, Deniliquin
- Lawson Syphon Boat Ramp, Lawson Syphon Road, Deniliquin
- McLean Beach Boat Ramp, Butler Street, Deniliquin
- Sloane Street Boat Ramp, Sloane Street, Deniliquin
- Twin Rivers Boat Ramp, Riverina Highway, Deniliquin
- Willoughby's Beach Boat Ramp, Murray Valley Regional Park, Deniliquin

Deniliquin Boat Club

The Deniliquin Boat Club has its own clubhouse downstream of the town and welcomes visitors. Check out their Facebook page for the club's latest activities, including water-skiing lessons in warmer months.

Canoes & kayaks

With its long stretches of tranquil water, the Edward River (Kolety) provides one of Australia's top settings for canoe and kayak users. Here you can enjoy the true beauty of this unique river system and the surrounding river red gum forests, and with no-ski zones you can paddle in peace.

For the serious explorer, there's a three-day canoe trip through a stunning natural landscape from where the Edward River (Kolety) leaves the Murray River at Picnic Point to Deniliquin. There are even campsites along the way for overnight stops, some with amenities.

Edward River (Kolety)

Fishing

The Edward River (Kolety) is a fishing paradise – in fact, many consider this to be one of the country’s best places to land Murray Cod and Golden Perch.

The Billabong Creek, which winds north of Deniliquin, is another popular destination for anglers wanting to land some iconic Murray Cod.

Before you cast off:

1. Fishing licence: You can pick up a short-term fishing licence from one of the local service stations for just a few dollars.
2. Fishing rod: Bring your rod from home or pick up a rod and tackle kit from a local fishing and camping store.

3. Bait: Shrimps, worms, grubs, yabbies and cheese are the most popular baits. You can pick these up from the fishing and camping stores, or most service stations in town.
4. Local knowledge: Head to the Visitor Information Centre to hear about all the hotspots.

Float from beach to beach

One way many locals and visitors love to make the most of sunny days around here is with a gentle float from beach to beach along the Edward River (Kolety).

A favourite launching spot is Willoughby’s Beach. Drift along slowly with the current, and take in the beautiful scenery. About an hour or so later you’ll arrive at McLean Beach.

Get active

Walk the walk

With Deniliquin so close to the Murray Valley Regional Park and the banks of the beautiful Edward River (Ko/ety), you're surrounded by walking trails where you can stretch your legs. These are three local favourites:

Beach to Beach Walk

Start at McLean Beach and follow the path along the banks of the Edward River (Ko/ety), passing stately red gums and sandy beaches. Continue along the path under the National Bridge until you reach the Island Sanctuary. Wander through this tranquil setting and keep an eye out for native birds, kangaroos and other wildlife.

The walking path continues at the back gate of the sanctuary where you'll pass the first town water supply tower and Memorial Park sporting grounds. You'll enter the Murray Valley Regional Park before finishing at Willoughby's Beach.

Lagoons to River Walk

Explore Deniliquin's unique lagoon system on this picturesque 1.4 km Lagoons to River Walk, which curves through the centre of town. You'll pass through gorgeous parks including Waring Gardens, Brown's Park and Scott's Park. The trails have signage along the way to keep you on track, show distances and highlight key attractions.

With many places to stop for a shady break, and shops along the way for supplies, this is a relaxed way to experience the natural wonderland of Deni.

Murray Valley Regional Park walks

There are plenty of trails to explore in the Murray Valley Regional Park. Located a stone's throw from Deniliquin, these winding pathways will take you through tranquil river red gum forests near the Edward River (Ko/ety).

Immerse yourself among peaceful sights and sounds as trees shift from river red gums to black box woodland. See how many red-rumped parrots, rosellas and galahs you can see – and if you hear some rustling in the underbrush, look out for eastern grey kangaroos and goannas.

Billabong Loop Walk is also a popular route within the park and is clearly signposted to keep you on track.

On the trail, on the greens or on your bike – you'll find plenty of places to keep active around Deni.

Local tip!

If you're keen for an early start, nothing beats a sunrise stroll along the Beach to Beach Walk. Especially during autumn or spring when the weather is mild.

Georgina Mildren, Deniliquin

Mountain bike trails

Murray Valley Regional Park is well known by mountain bikers for its fast and flowing cross-country routes through stunning forests. Expect lots of turns and log rollovers – it's mostly flat terrain with some gentle hills and one steep descent.

Choose from three loop trails: 7.6km, 11km or 12km. The trail network is structured around the existing kangaroo tracks found in the forest, so it has a minimal environmental impact.

These trails are rated as intermediate but are suitable for most riders. It takes about two hours to complete the full 12km loop.

If you didn't bring your own wheels, drop by the Visitor Information Centre in George Street to hire a mountain bike. It's free to hire – just call ahead on 1800 650 712 to make sure bikes are available.

Ride!

With our flat plains, Deniliquin and its surrounds are ideal for exploring by pedal power. From the wide streets in town to the backroads and smaller villages, you can leave the car behind and explore at a leisurely pace.

Bike trails can be found throughout the Murray Valley Regional Park. Both the Beach to Beach Walk and Lagoon to River Walk are bike-friendly.

Pick up a trail map from the Visitor Information Centre, where you can also borrow a bike for free. Bike hire is also available from some riverside resorts.

Swim!

Young and old are welcome at our splash park, the Deniliquin Swim Centre, which features a 50-metre Olympic size outdoor pool as well as smaller hydrotherapy and kids' pools.

The indoor warm hydrotherapy pool operates all year round and the outdoor pools are open from November to March.

Kids can dry off with a run around the playground equipment of neighbouring Scott's Park.

Bowl!

For some sport and a gentler pace with a social setting, you're welcome at the Deniliquin Bowling Club. The green fee includes the use of bowls.

Golf!

With 18 carefully maintained fairways meandering around waterways and forests, Deniliquin Golf Club is a mecca for avid golfers as well as native birds and wildlife. The greens are fast but true and kept in superb condition throughout the year.

As you walk the lush couch fairways, surrounded by abundant native flora, you may be joined by spectators ranging from kangaroos to wild ducks. Or you may share the fairways with the beautiful superb parrots. They, like other birds and native animals, seem oblivious to human activity.

The course itself is a par 72, comprising five par threes, five par fives and eight par fours. The front nine is shorter, though the many water hazards require precision placement. The more open back nine allows you to open up with the driver - but beware the creeks and trees if you're too far offline.

The course is not long by today's standards - 5,848 metres for men and 5,118 metres for ladies - but it will challenge the accuracy of all players with giant trees lining the fairways.

The club offers a 'same day play' which is rare among Murray courses. Call (03) 5881 3333 to organise your hit-off or visit denigolfclub.com.au
.....

Have a hit. Have a go.
Deni's sports grounds are welcoming to all ages and abilities.

Serve!

The Lawn Tennis Club offers 18 impressive lawn and synthetic courts for tennis and croquet, home to the annual Easter Lawn Tennis Tournament.

You can also hire squash and tennis courts at the Deni RSL, which also has a well-equipped playground with barbecue facilities.

Natural wonders

Experience some genuinely great 'great outdoors' – from tranquil riverside bush to endless flat plains of the outback.

See storms, sunsets and stars like nowhere else on earth.

 Murray Valley Regional Park

Murray Valley Regional Park

Murray Valley Regional Park offers a wide range of outdoor experiences including scenic walking trails and bike trails, with abundant native wildlife, flora and birdlife.

Here you can explore further along the river and deeper into the eucalyptus forest – and all just a stone’s throw out of town.

Campers are welcome in Murray Valley Regional Park, as are domestic pets. Camp beside one of the many sandy beaches, cast a line and hook a magnificent Murray Cod.

Island Sanctuary

Island Sanctuary is a natural bushland island formed by the Edward River (Ko/ety), and boasts unique native flora and fauna including kangaroos and over 100 varieties of birdlife – so be sure to pack the binoculars!

It’s the perfect spot for a picnic with plenty of grassy sites or picnic tables to choose from. The sanctuary is also pet friendly – just remember to keep your pooch on a leash, so you don’t scare the other wildlife.

The Island Sanctuary’s walking track is part of the Beach to Beach Walk which leads from McLean Beach along the river to Willoughby’s Beach.

Yarkuwa Indigenous Knowledge Centre offers guided cultural tours of the sanctuary. Learn about the significance of flora, what it’s traditionally used for, and view a scarred tree. Call ahead to book a tour on 03 5881 3312.

Old Jack

The sanctuary is also the burial site of ‘Old Jack’, who suffered at the hands of the notorious Melville gang of bushrangers when they paid Deni an unwelcome visit in 1851.

Waring Gardens

Local lagoons

As well as the beautiful Edward River (Ko/ety), Deniliquin boasts a magnificent natural lagoon system that meanders through the centre of town. These lagoons are home to an array of birdlife, native wildlife and aquatic species.

Deniliquin's lagoon system runs across six blocks, each including their own unique park and facilities.

Waring Gardens

Waring Gardens on Cressy Street is a delightful picnic area where you can feed the ducks, let the kids run around in the enclosed children's playground or just sit back under the shade of a giant Moreton Bay fig. The park has public toilets, plenty of seating and a BBQ area. It is directly opposite one of Deni's best shopping strips.

Burchfield Park

Commencing in Junction street, Burchfield Park is the natural place to start the Lagoons to River Walk.

McFaul Park

McFaul Park in Civic Place has been developed into an open-air classroom to help people learn about the value of wetlands, with interpretive signs so you can enjoy a self-navigable wetland walk. Look out for native fish, including the endangered Southern Pigmy Perch, in the lagoons as well as a colourful array of birdlife including ducks, speckled geese, shags and pied cormorants. You might even spot a rare species such as the Australian reed warbler.

The refuge in the centre of the lagoon is where birds sit, rest and dry their wings. Every day they can be seen from the bird hide on the island. You'll probably also see some water rats which love eating yabbies and small fish, and turtles which use the refuge for sunning and resting.

Gorman Park

Gorman Park is between the Central Murray Regional Library and the Deniliquin Childcare Centre. It's another popular place to stop and feed the ducks.

Brown Park

Brown Park is located in Whitelock Street, and is home to the Werrpanakata Fish Park (Wamba Wamba meaning a good place to fish). With its recreational fishing park and education facility, you can learn about the types of fish in our waterways and Indigenous areas of importance. A fishing deck has been built over the lagoon which is stocked with native fish and surrounded by native plants.

Scott's Park

Continue along Whitelock Street to find Scott's Park. While the lagoon system is underground in this park, there is still plenty to see and do. The park features a huge water tower mural, an adventure playground for the kids, the town's indoor and outdoor pools, and the Community Garden.

Bird watching

It's possible to observe over 80 bird species in just one day within the town.

To ensure you experience it all, a local bird guide can be arranged at the Visitor Information Centre. Philip and Patricia Maher of Australian Ornithological Services specialise in helping serious bird watchers locate the harder to find and rarer species.

Popular locations for bird watching are in the Murray Valley Regional Park, McFaul Park, Island Sanctuary, or along the Edward River (Ko/ety). Maybe you'll see The Plains Wanderer – an endangered species with habitats in and around Deni.

 Did you know more than a third of Australia's bird species have been spotted in the Deniliquin region?

Reed Beds Bird Hide

Twitchers never get tired of visiting the Reed Beds Bird Hide at Mathoura in the Murray Valley National Park, as there are different birds to see throughout the year.

Bring your camera for a stunning photo of an eastern great egret or a musk duck thrashing in the water to attract a mate. If you take a walk along the boardwalk, you could catch some yellow rosellas and superb wrens. Watch at the edge of the water for the purple swamphen.

Make sure you turn over the bird panels as you stroll along the boardwalk - you'll learn some fascinating facts such as which birds are vegetarians and which prefer frogs, and which bird honks like a goose but soars like an eagle.

Hay Plains

Flat lands, big skies, and views that go on forever.

Head out on the open road north of Deniliquin, and you'll find yourself cruising through the Hay Plains and into the traditional lands of the Nari Nari people. This vast expanse of flat land and saltbush is counted in the top three flattest places on earth - but that doesn't mean there's nothing to see.

If you're lucky enough to be in this part of the world as a storm rolls in, you're in for a show of truly epic proportions. Sunrise and sunset are also spectacular times to visit. It's well worth an evening drive after a quick bite in one of the region's welcoming pubs.

On a clear night (which is often around here) the vivid sunset colours give way to a glittering star-filled sky. With no city lights, the view is simply breathtaking.

History and culture

Explore the ancient history and contemporary culture which has put Deni on the map.

Historical Society Museum

The area's fascinating past comes to life at the Deniliquin and District Historical Society Museum, set within the former police inspector's residence built in the 1880s.

Reflecting the different facets of a lively community, the displays include shearing equipment, police records, historical costumes, newspapers dating back to 1859, and items relating to the history of Deniliquin's town band, Picnic Races, Red Cross and war veterans.

The museum is open
Tuesdays and Saturdays from 10.00am to 12.00pm, or by appointment. Entry $5.

Peppin Heritage Centre

The Peppin Heritage Centre was Deniliquin's first public school, built in 1861. A survey conducted at the time revealed that only 138 of the 613 children living in the area attended school.

The original schoolhouse was demolished and replaced by a larger building in 1879. Due to continued growth, it was extended in 1899 and 1905, and continued to operate until 1972 when it finally closed its doors.

Today, the building still includes a historical classroom, in addition to a museum, regular exhibitions and the Visitor Information Centre.

The Peppin Heritage Centre is open seven days a week, 9.00am to 4.00pm. Entry $3.

The Depot

If you can't get enough of vintage vehicles, memorabilia and relics of times gone by, you'll love The Depot. This impressive collection of historic cars and memorabilia from Australia and overseas occupies a 3000-square-metre complex.

Wander among restored vintage Australian cars, scale model cars and even a bus dating from the 1940s. Fans of Elvis are also in for a treat with cabinets full of collectables in tribute to the King.

The Depot is open seven days a week. Adults $15. Children/concession/seniors $10. Family $30.

Water Tower Mural

The 22.8-metre water tower is located in Scott's Park. Acclaimed street artist Cam Scale completed the full mural which wraps around the tower over just 17 days in July 2019. The mural transitions from two kookaburras resting on gum tree branches to a starry night sky.

Yarkuwa Indigenous Knowledge Centre

Yarkuwa is a Traditional Owner organisation based in Deniliquin. It was formed in 2003 to ensure traditional owner knowledge was preserved in future generations. Here in the museum and gallery space, visitors can learn about the Indigenous heritage of the Wamba Wamba and Perrepa Perrepa People.

The centre hosts displays and holds records of cultural heritage artefacts including stone and wooden tools and woven baskets, Wamba Wamba Language learning displays, and local family information.

Traditional items, foods, clothing and local Indigenous artwork can be purchased from the centre. Yarkuwa also offers guided cultural tours of the Island Sanctuary.

Long Paddock Touring Route

The Long Paddock touring route trip follows the historic Cobb stock route, from fascinating Echuca Moama on the Murray River to iconic country towns. The drive features public artworks and information boards along the way, bringing the history of this unique drive to life.

Today the modern Cobb Highway follows part of the great network of stock routes that became known as The Long Paddock – a network of tracks and trails linking stock-breeding areas of inland NSW and Queensland with emerging markets in Victoria. It also provided an escape route from drought when the seasons failed. The Long Paddock is still a working stock route which provides a link to times and landscapes long since altered.

The Long Paddock also passes through some of the most character-filled villages in Australia. These little townships of between 30 and 70 people provide visitors with a glimpse of life in country communities. Make sure you stop and have a cuppa or a beer in Pretty Pine, Wanganella and Boooroban, where you will be welcomed with a smile and can get a real feel for life in the bush.

The Long Paddock is an easy drive and accessible by caravan, car or 4WD.

In the Edward River (Kolety) region, you'll find five Long Paddock sculptures:

Shod by artist Jonathan Leahey, near the Peppin Heritage Centre in George Street.

Cut by artist Jonathan Leahey, on Davidson Street.

Smoko by artist Geoff Hocking, in front of the Pretty Pine Pub, a 20-minute drive from Deniliquin.

Headless Horseman by artist Geoff Hocking, at the Black Swamp rest site between Wanganella and Boooroban, a 40-minute drive from Deniliquin.

Reutilise, by award-winning local artist Stuart Taylor, near the Visitor Information Centre on George Street in Deniliquin.

Deni the “Ute capital of the world”

As the symbolic home of Australia's iconic ute, Deni has done more than anywhere else to celebrate this wonder of automotive usefulness. We've rightfully earned the title of “Ute capital of the world” – and we even have a public art sculpture to prove it!

Reutilise, by award-winning local artist Stuart Taylor, is a life-size Holden ute made from metal objects found on farms in the area around Deniliquin. It's a homage to utes everywhere, and a celebration of the ingenuity of farmers and regional people across Australia.

Local tip!

When you've had your fix of sunsets and stunning landscape views, head to one of our local country pubs for a hearty feed, cool refreshments and a chat with the locals. You'll find most of them can tell you a funny tale or two.

Erin Johnston, Deniliquin

Historic Town Walk

What better way to experience the history of Deni than wandering around town? This walk begins at the Peppin Heritage Centre. It takes you through 42 historically significant locations including the Dublin Hotel and the Federal Hotel, both from the 1870s.

You'll also learn about the airport, cemetery, Lawson Syphon and much more. Pick up a copy of the Deniliquin Town Walk guide from the Visitor Information Centre.

No.7
SERVICE FLYING
TRAINING SCHOOL
Deniliquin WWII 1941 - 1945

No7 Service Flying Training School

Deniliquin Airport is the proud home of permanent displays commemorating the No.7 Service Flying Training School (No7 SFTS) which was a RAAF flying training school in Deniliquin during the Second World War.

The displays honour all men and women who served at the school and is a memorial to the 50 young men who were killed during training. There is also a dedicated RAAF display at the Peppin Heritage Centre.

Engineering marvels

Around Deni, you'll find a couple of awe-inspiring feats of rural engineering.

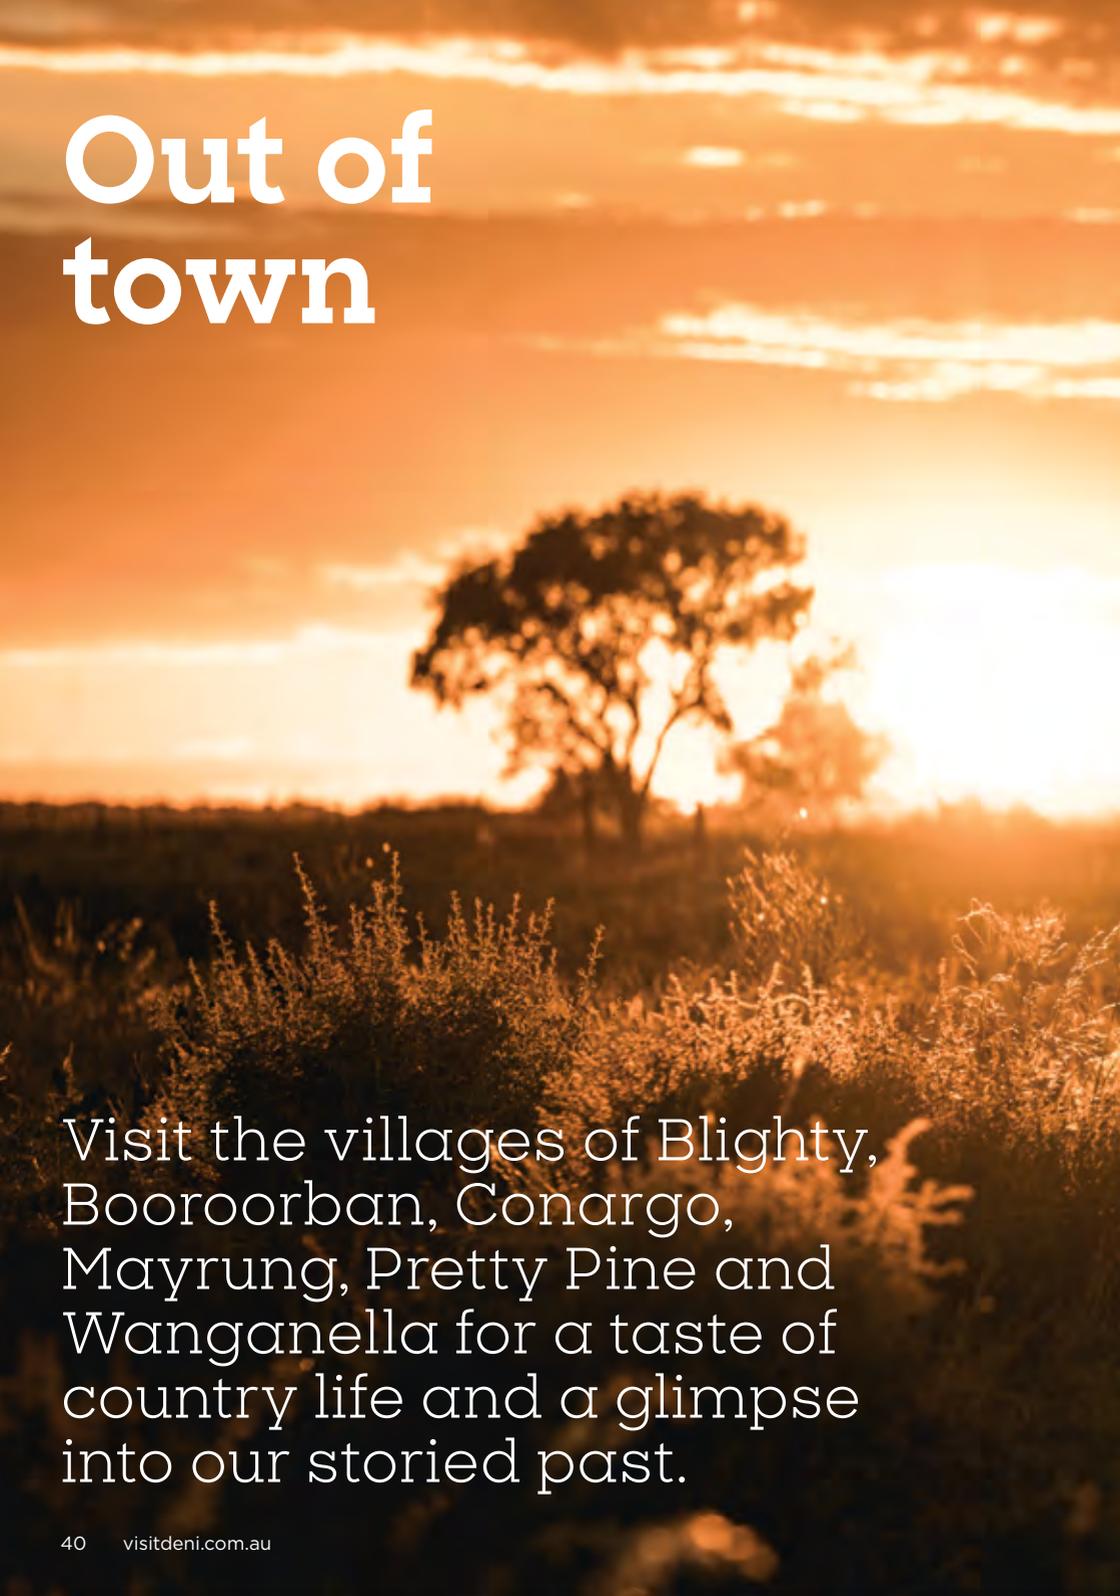

The Lawson Syphon, approximately five kilometres from town, diverts the canal under the river to deliver water to the agricultural areas west of Deniliquin. There are interpretive panels on-site, telling the story of the syphons and how they were the catalyst for a farming boom.

Around 25 kilometres north west of Deni is Stevens Weir, which was built in 1938 to guarantee permanent town water supplies. There is a lovely picnic area overlooking the weir and the fish ladder, which allows native fish to migrate upstream to spawn.

Central Murray Regional Library

Set opposite the town's picturesque gardens, the Central Murray Regional Library offers visitors everything. Free Wi-Fi, regular children's activities such as story time, and memorable school holiday programs.

Out of town

Visit the villages of Blighty, Booroorban, Conargo, Mayrung, Pretty Pine and Wanganella for a taste of country life and a glimpse into our storied past.

Blighty

The village of Blighty is an easy half-hour drive east towards Finley and Albury. What Blighty lacks in size (the population is somewhere around 400) it more than makes up in community spirit. You won't find any shops, but it does have a primary school, a pub, a footy ground and netball courts. This is a town rich in family, community and friendliness.

For a taste of local life, stop in for a drink or a hearty meal at the Blighty Hotel - the chicken parma is a speciality. On weekends there's often a barbecue going in the beer garden, and you might even get roped into a friendly pool competition.

Country football and netball clubs are the glue for many small Aussie towns. On winter Saturdays, join the locals around the oval cheering on the mighty Redeyes. Every second Saturday features a home game at Blighty.

Boooroban

Once a stop on the fabled Cobb & Co run between Deniliquin and Hay, the Royal Mail Hotel is at the centre of life in the village of Boooroban. In fact, it's the only commercial building in the village!

Located in the middle of the vast, flat Hay Plains, Boooroban features a small camping ground and caravan park at the pub. Here you can enjoy a meal, a drink and a chat with the locals in the lovely peppercorn tree-shaded beer garden.

The main bar pays homage to the Headless Horseman, also commemorated in a sculpture out at the Black Swamp rest area, who was said to roam these parts in the 1850s. Don't let an old headless bloke put you off though - as well as the camping ground, the area features the Burrabroon Farm Stay experience, a working sheep station offering unique accommodation in a converted train carriage.

Conargo

Conargo was initially part of Benjamin Boyd's vast pastoral empire, extending from the south, across the Billabong Creek, and taking in more land to the north. Officially gazetted as a town in 1860, Conargo quickly grew to become the passionate pastoral and grazing community it is today.

Only a 25-minute drive northeast of Deniliquin, Conargo village sits on the Billabong Creek (a tributary of the Murrumbidgee) which many claim is the longest creek in Australia.

While the village is small, it services several large sheep stations and merino studs. The merino breed has its origins in the Riverina, and the Interpretive Centre in Conargo tells the story of this critical animal's influence on the fortunes of not just the region, but the entire nation.

The restored 19th century Drop Log Stables, showing the building process of the time, were part of the old Cadman's Conargo Inn that served as a meal break for travellers on the old Cobb & Co coach run. The photo opportunities continue just a little further along the road, where a charming bush church from 1914 still stands.

Mayrung

With a population hovering somewhere around 150, Mayrung is a tiny village community but a big part of our region's agricultural life. Irrigation makes grain production possible, and the locals have taken to rice and other grains here with gusto. The landscape changes through the seasons and makes for a lovely scenic drive just 30km from Deni.

Pretty Pine

Just a short 20-minute drive from Deni is the small community of Pretty Pine.

Here you can visit the Pretty Pine Hotel, a heritage building that was once the final stop on the Cobb & Co route to Deniliquin from Hay. These days, it's better known for its delicious meals (pizza a speciality), cold drinks and friendly service.

While you're in town, kids can run free at the football oval, cricket pitch and playground of Pretty Pine Recreation Reserve.

If you happen to be in the area in September, don't miss the famous annual Pretty Pine Father's Day Expo and Market on the first Sunday of the month. This vibrant community event attracts several thousand visitors every year.

📍 Wanganella General Store

Wanganella

Sitting on a picturesque bank of the Billabong Creek, the Wanganella General Store draws visitors from all around for friendly service, cold drinks and classic pub meals.

Wanganella is probably best known as the birthplace of the Peppin merino sheep breed; a hardy, large sheep that was built for Australia's climate and conditions. The Peppin Merino is now the most common breed in Australia, and a bronze statue at the front gates of Wanganella Station, just south of the village, commemorates its importance.

The village is around 45 minutes' drive north of Deniliquin along the flat Hay Plains, and makes a special side-trip to see the countryside. Settle in at the General Store and take in the breathtaking sunsets or big starry night sky on the way back.

If you're feeling adventurous, explore the region's tracks and waterways – either on foot or by bike – and maybe even find a secluded spot to cast a line and catch a fish or two. Heading north from Deni, take a left at the first dirt road after the Billabong Creek bridge (no sign, no name!) for some beautiful natural picnic spots. As well as fish, this spot is home to several notable bird species.

Local tip!

A true locals' secret, the area best known as The Common in Wanganella is a hidden away, nature lovers' haven. Take the first dirt road to the left once crossing the Billabong Creek bridge towards Hay and you'll wind your way along the creek's edge through a forest of river gums. You'll find ample areas to pull up for a peaceful picnic, to cast a line for a yellow or Murray Cod, a bushwalk with your fur family or even a bike ride.

Local tip!

Explore one of the many villages in the area, especially when the canola fields are in bloom and covered in bright yellow flowers. We don't exactly have small hobby farms out here, so the fields of yellow as far as the eye can see are pretty epic!
